DeVry University Faculty Forums 2012

Rebooting Education: Engaging Students and Educators in Real World Projects and Start-up Activity

WHAT: Join a panel of Colorado entrepreneurs, economic development experts, K-12 educators, and DeVry faculty and students in a timely discussion about reducing the gap between classroom learning and the real world.

- Discover how to engage students and educators in real-world projects that positively impact workforce readiness and economic development in our state
- Learn about “academic incubators” where students and educators can provide support to area entrepreneurs in starting their new businesses
- Explore ways to overcome challenges inherent in real-world project-based learning, and how best to leverage resources offered by entrepreneurs and business leaders
- Hear from area leaders in technology/business startups and economic development, as to where the “smart money” is going, and where the growth areas are for our economy

WHEN: Thursday, January 19th, 2012, 6:00 pm

WHERE: DeVry University - Westminster Campus
1870 West 122nd Avenue
Westminster, CO 80234

RSVP: Sarah Breitner; 303.280.7486; sbreitner@devry.edu

Space is limited so call or email us to reserve your spot!

©2011 DeVry Educational Development Corp. All rights reserved.